Theodor Nöldeke was a German orientalist, born on March 2, 1836, in Harburg, and died on December 25, 1930, in Karlsruhe. He was noted for his Semitic and Islamic studies, which included a history of the Qur'an (1859) published with additions at Göttingen. In 1885, he became a corresponding member of the St. Petersburg Academy of Sciences and in 1927, an honorary member. His large, comprehensive Grammar of Syriac (1904) is the most complete one currently available; however, the science of linguistics has made great strides since Nöldeke's era, and it is to be hoped that a new, comprehensive grammar of Syriac will be forthcoming. Theodor Nöldeke was a brilliant Semitist, and his grammar of Syriac, English version published 1904, is the most complete one currently available. However, the science of linguistics has made great strides since Nöldeke's era, and it is to be hoped that a new, comprehensive grammar of Syriac will be forthcoming.
Theodor Nöldeke's "The History of the Qur'an" offers a foundational work of modern Quranic studies to the English-speaking public. Nöldeke's original publication as revised and expanded over nearly three-quarters of a century by his scholarly successors Friedrich Schwally, Gotthelf Bergstrasser, and Otto Pretzl remains an indispensable resource. German Semitist Nöldeke was born in Harburg near Hamburg on 2 March 1836 and died in Karlsruhe on 25 December 1930. In 1853 he began the study of classical and Near Eastern languages in Göttingen where he earned his doctoral degree in 1856. Theodor Nöldeke 2 March 1836–25 December 1930 was a German orientalist who was born in Harburg and studied in Göttingen, Vienna, Leiden, and Berlin. Biography: In 1859 his "History of the Qur'an" won for him the prize of the French Académie des Inscriptions et Belles Lettres and in the following year he rewrote it in German, "Geschichte des Qorans," and published it with additions at.
